

Workshop Automatic Paring Swiss system

It took a long time (an automatic schedule for a personal round-robin tournament has been available in Toernooibase since 2015) but we are proud to announce that we now have an automatic pairing module available for the Swiss system. A wish that has been with us for quite some time.

And this for Swiss tournaments that are played on (opponent) rating as well as for tournaments that are played with various variants of Solkoff (WP-SB, Solkoff Truncated, Solkoff Median, Solkoff SSolk – the preferred method used by the FMJD) and in which the ranking on WP and SB determines pairings.

The pairing module in Toernooibase is based on a freeware program bbpPairings, which supports the so-called Dutch system Swiss of FIDE, which was approved by FIDE in 2016. Some modifications have been made by programmer Hendrik Veenstra (mainly concerning the color conditions, which are more important in FIDE, because of the small advantage of white in the chess world).

The program was tested simultaneously during the Rotterdam Open 2023 and extensively during the European Youth Championship 2023 in Tallinn, where eight Swiss classical tournaments ran simultaneously. The test results at the EC Tallinn were such (89% the same pairing) that we are now making the pairing module available in Toernooibase. The technical committee of the FMJD and KNDB has also been informed and has also received an analysis of the observed differences with the DraughtsArbiter program during the European Youth Championships in Tallinn. Although the pairing module does not exactly support the FMJD rules, it is qualitatively (also considering that FIDE does use it) an excellent method to arrange a Swiss tournament entirely online, when the organisation does not prescribe the DraughtsArbiter program.

How does the program work in Toernooibase?

a) Determine the first pairing numbers.

If a tournament has been entered in Toernooibase under the Swiss system and you want to use the automatic pairing, you must first determine the first pairing numbers.

A common starting point is that these are determined on the basis of the rating of the players (KNDB rating or FMJD rating) (it is also customary in the Solkoff tournaments to pair the first round based on rating).

But it is also possible to manually set this numbers (if very little rating data is known) on the basis of estimated playing strength (for example, based on the ranking of a previous tournament), while it is also possible to do this completely randomly by the program. More on this later.

Filling the (estimated) ratings once

Experienced tournament administrators in Toernooibase have probably already used the existing tool for Swiss tournaments by rating and insert Sub-rankings of rating groups. You can fill it in the advanced settings of a tournament.

We have already filled participants of the Mello Koolman tournament in a test environment and we are now going to add the ratings.

This is done with the following procedure from the easy tournament screen:

Latest results: Remark(s)/Announcement(s):

Then click on the change stick at Tournament settings. the next screen appears:

If the data below are correct you can here add players to/remove players from the several classes/categories. Otherwise you have to change the data below and click on SUBMIT. Correct layout Change the parameters at a individual round robin, Swiss-, Keizer- or moyennesystem. Special upload from Toernooimanager (version 7,39c) use with function Clipboard!

Click on parameters in this screen. Then you will see the following screen:

Here you can make a year- or seasoncollection of same tournaments. Add here this tournament at an existing year- or seasoncollection. Delete here eventually the complete year- or seasoncollection or the linking of this tournament.

Here you can combine tournaments.

Here you can move this tournament to another season.

Here you add the palmares (top three) to this tournament.

You can here insert bonus- or maluspoints (a 'minus' at front) in the first input area.

And you finally got to the screen where you can enter the ratings in the first column here. This can be done manually. For example, if you want to use blitz ratings from the FMJD (not available in Toernooibase) or the quarterly interim ratings from the KNDB (also not available). And of course there are also foreign (French, Belgian or Italian) ratings, whose lists are also not in Toernooibase. Only the first column needs to be filled. The second column is used in other tournament types (e.g. Keizer-system and earlier the plus system) to record other data with this form.

But in this case we choose to automatically fill the KNDB rating and click on the Tool: Fill FMJD or KNDB rating automatically.

Then we get the following screen:

And you can see that almost all ratings for the players have been filled, except for three players who do not yet have a rating. We then enter an estimated rating for these players. Usually the lowest rating -1 (etc.) is chosen here based on expected playing strength. Then we click Submit We then receive a notification that the bonus points/deduction points have been filled and you can return to the tournament.

Mello Koolman test Damgenootschap Het Noorden 2023

The bonus-/maluspoints (of plusses or minuses) are now inserted. You can go with HOME back to the main menu. Go here back to the tournament.

This message is somewhat confusing, but this same input form is used in a round tournament to possibly (if necessary) award bonus points / deduction points.

However, the ratings are now filled with the participants and we go via the link Go here back to tournament, back to the starting screen of the tournament.

b) Automatic pairing Swiss tournament

We have now filled the ratings at the tournament once and can now do the pairing of the Swiss tournament.

We click on NEW at Pairings. The next screen appears:

Mello Koolman test Damgenootschap Het Noorden 2023

You also could use the automatic swiss paringmodule in TournamentBase:

(Generally the games of one round are played on the same date. If there is a different date, you can change this later at Correct. Parings (Pacults, You don't have to fill in the result and check

If the pairings are completely inserted you can go back with HOME (above left) to the main menu. Go here back to the tournament.

Experienced users will probably also be familiar with this screen, but there is now an additional AUTO-PARING button for Swiss at the top. And we click on this and we get a pairing:

FINALIZE PAIRING AND SAVE TO TOURNAMENTBASE

And you can see some things here.

a) The players are divided into two rating groups. The players with the highest ratings (places 1-15) play against the players with the lower ratings (16-30).

c) In accordance with the rules, colors are alternated, so that the best color ratios are likely to emerge in subsequent pairings

b) A Dummy has been added. Secretly I made sure that there are 31 participants. The number 31 (the lowest in rating - who has been given an estimated rating) plays against the Dummy, who automatically adds the program. The Dummy (I also put this tournament on opponent rating) automatically gets the lowest rating from now on: 839 in this case.

At the top we see three more buttons. I will come back to that later. We will now first save the final draw in Toernooibase.

There will now be one more intermediate screen, where we can indicate the date of playing:

No date specified for the new round

Please specify a date:

Pairing round 2 (Mello Koolman test)

FINALIZE PAIRING AND SAVE TO TOURNAMENTBASE

We see that in the different point groups (coincidentally all equally, so that no players have to go to a lower or higher point group) the same division into rating groups takes place.

(No. 1-4 against No. 5-8 for example). Striking (for those who don't really know the regulations): a) Thobian de Groot has scored 2 points, but has played against Dummy and when paired for the next round he is counted as 0 points according to the regulations, so that he does not get a tough pairing.

b) The lowest in rating of the 0 points now gets a pairing against Dummy.

Now before finalizing the pairing, let's take a look at the other three buttons.

First of all, you can use the Fill rating link here again (if you have forgotten a rating, or still need to add it - this can occur with Dummy - to fill in) fill it in. And then the button All L(oting)nr Reset based on Rating.

In addition to filling the lottery numbers, you will see the ranking used to make a pairing. When pairing with Swiss, a different ranking is used compared to the position used for the prizes. Therefore, it is explicitly stated so that pairing choices can be explained by the arbiter.

It is striking to see here in the standings that Thobian de Groot (in the Toernooibase rankings really 2 points) is counted as 0 points according to the pairing regulations. The FMJD rules (and also FIDE rules) state that players who had a Bye in the first round must be paired with 0 points for the second round.

Verification data for the referee:

Here you can see the number of points, color played and color preference and for player 31 that he played against D(ummy). And at Cur (Current round) the player who is currently paired (draw no. 9 against Roel Boomstra).

This referee info becomes more interesting when more rounds have been played and there are also so-called upfloats and downfloats (paired from a lower or higher point group) shown.

FMJD report

And finally the button: FMJD report.

This allows the referee to generate an FMJD report, which he can send to the FMJD (or upload in DraughtsArbiter). You will receive this report in txt file on your computer. . And you can use it as a backup. It is also possible to open this file in DraughtsArbiter with: File -> Import -> FMJD Report (create tournament first via File -> New)

The contents of the file will look something like this (we may need to fine-tune this a bit):

Anyway, we have now put the second pairing (with the absence of Floris Tol) in Toernooibase, and again filled in the results fictitiously:

And we see that Floris Tol is now in the ranking with 1 game, which is correct because he missed 1 round.

c) Determine lot numbers yourself.

As mentioned at the beginning, it is common practice to determine the lot numbers based on (estimated) rating in both Swiss tournaments on opponent rating (mandatory) and in Swiss Solkoff tournaments.

But....if there are few players with a rating, or none at all (common in youth tournaments), the lot number can also be determined manually. (Then, of course, the opponent rating is not played). We do this again at advanced settings.

The program itself (if no ratings have been entered) randomly fills in the lot numbers. In the example below, I set the lot numbers alphabetically in advanced and then clicked Submit:

RANKING AFTER ROUND 0

Entering lot numbers manually is an accurate job, because if have entered a double number, the program will go on tilt during pairing.... (which you can of course restore in advanced).

Draw numbers in alphabetical order gives the following pairing:

Pairing round 1 (Mello Koolman test)

FINALIZE PAIRING AND SAVE TO TOURNAMENTBASE

So again group 1-15 against group 16-30 alternate color and number last, the Z van Zijlstra plays against Dummy.

Epilogue

So far the manual of the Automatic pairing Swiss system. Of course it is possible - despite our reasonable testing - that you still come across strange things, bugs or that the manual is not yet clear enough.

Let us know, so that we can use this feedback to make the pairing module even better. For the time being, we assume that this new option in Tournament Base will make it easier for tournament organizers to process online tournaments with the Swiss system. Good luck with that!

Remarks, suggestions, etc., of course, to pboumaharl@hetnet.nl
